MAKI MURAI
Commerce and Business
Administration university transfer

THE FUTURE IS BRIGHT

When Maki finished high school, he was eager to study in another country. Looking to Canada, he chose Douglas for its quality of education, university-transfer options and academic rigour, with the goal of transferring to UBC after completing his program. It wasn't easy - he had to maintain a good GPA in order to get into UBC while mastering English at the same time - but his hard work paid off: He graduated from the Commerce and Business program and went on to complete his bachelor's degree at UBC. Now, with a degree in business and economics, he is helping other international students find accommodation in Vancouver for Global Education City, a student residence and housing organization. But this isn't the end of his education goals: Maki is studying for the Canadian Securities Course so that he can become a financial advisor, and he eventually wants to pursue an MBA or master's degree in international relations. He says moving to Canada - and choosing Douglas - were the best decisions he's ever made. "I can't say it's easy to live and work in a foreign country, but thanks to Douglas, I have a great future ahead of me."

Every year, thousands of students from around the globe choose to study at Douglas College. Some want to build the skills to launch an exciting career. Others are looking for a well-rounded education. They choose Douglas because they get the best of both worlds: the academic rigour of a university and the applied, real-world skills necessary to achieve academic and career success.

Choose success.
Choose Douglas.

MARY DUNN
Bachelor of Business Administration in Accounting

A DEGREE OF SATISFACTION

When Mary moved to Vancouver from the USA, she thought a big research university was the only way to get a bachelor's degree. After enrolling and taking a few classes at the University of British Columbia, Mary found the large class size unwelcoming and the tuition fees hard to manage. She decided to leave UBC and pursue a Bachelor's of Business Administration in Accounting at Douglas where she received plenty of one-on-one time with instructors and enjoyed the more intimate class environment. In addition to her accounting studies, Mary volunteered helping low-income members of the community file their tax returns, earned multiple scholarships and awards for her high GPA and was chosen as class valedictorian. Now, Mary has graduated and moved on to a position as a data analyst for the local health authority. "I've wanted to work in health care since I was little and I find my current role immensely satisfying. I'm so grateful to Douglas for inspiring my data curiosity and helping me on my path to a career doing what I love."

Earn a degree. Create opportunity

Earn a Douglas College bachelor's degree, and you'll gain more than academic knowledge. That's because our degrees are applied. You'll get to use what you've learned in the classroom during practicum placements, research projects and more. That experience can help you impress employers once you graduate and start your career.

POST-DEGREE PROGRAMS

Get focused. Get hired

Have a bachelor's degree and want to increase your knowledge and skills, qualify for a higher salary or take your career in a whole new direction? Take a post-degree program, and you will gain professional skills and knowledge in a specific field. Once completed, your diploma can help you get a post-graduation work permit – a key step toward becoming a permanent resident of Canada.

See page 24 for details.

PRACTICAL SKILLS FOR ANY EVENT

After completing her bachelor's degree in International Business at the University of Huddersfield in England, Dana wanted to further specialize her qualifications. She started researching and found the Post-Baccalaureate Diploma in Hospitality Management at Douglas. "I love the practical approach to learning at Douglas. There are lots of hands-on exercises and activities, including the opportunity to network with industry professionals by participating in hospitality events," Dana says. In addition to her studies, Dana works as an attendant at two local stadiums during concerts and sporting events, and as a student assistant for the Marketing and Communications Office at Douglas. "My ultimate career goal is to work in event management and marketing," says Dana. "Douglas provides me with the opportunity to gain the skills I'll need to succeed in that field."

ILIA BUKHMATOV
Marketing Diploma

NEW: Computing Science Diploma

Want to join the expanding IT industry, or maybe launch a career in game development? Take your pick with the new Computing Science Diploma program, starting September 2021. In year one, you'll learn the basics of computer programming and gain experience using both C++ and Python. In year two, you'll choose from one of two streams: game development or general information technology. Once you graduate, you can transfer to a university to finish your bachelor's degree or begin working in the industry.

FINDING THE RIGHT PATH

Ilia always knew he wanted to study abroad. The list of possible post-secondary schools was overwhelming, but he was drawn to Douglas for the variety of career-focused programs, the facilities and the value. "I spent a long time looking for the right school. When I discovered Douglas, I was pleasantly surprised by the many career pathways I could choose from." Ilia decided on marketing because it's a creative and innovative field that he feels will open many doors over the course of his career. "Marketing is today's number one skillset. The marketing program has helped me develop professional qualities that will be applicable everywhere."

ASSOCIATE DEGREES

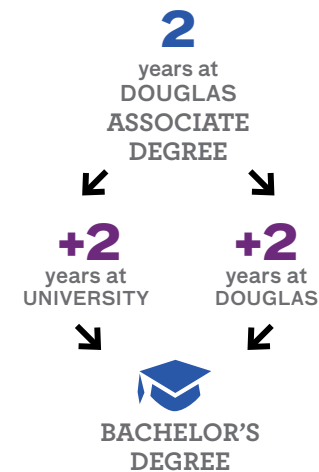

Start your academic journey

Advance your education with an Associate Degree. It takes only two years, and you'll graduate with a Canadian post-secondary credential. Plus, if you plan carefully, you can transfer all 60 credits to a research university to complete a bachelor's degree, put them toward a bachelor's degree at Douglas, or begin your career.

A CHANGE OF ENVIRONMENT

Growing up in rural Colombia, Alejandra was surrounded by nature. Her parents were passionate about sustainability – keeping their cows and chickens, composting, fishing in the nearby lake and even designing their family home to be environmentally friendly. Inspired by her parents, Alejandra began exploring ways in which she could make her own contributions to sustainable housing. “I explored environmental engineering first but wasn’t a fan of the heavy math focus. I switched to environmental design because the creative aspects of architecture would allow me to express myself while helping the environment,” she says. Alejandra is starting with the Associate of Arts in Environmental Studies at Douglas to gain an understanding of the environment that she can apply to her future design work. “The program is so versatile,” she says. “Since environmentalism can be applied in almost every field, I’ve been able to take a variety of courses, from biology to anthropology. It’s fun to learn about the environment through different perspectives.” With just one more semester to complete, Alejandra already knows where she’s going after graduation. “I’m hoping to be accepted to the Sustainable Design and Innovation program in Nice, France.”

Transfer to a top university

Take the first half of your bachelor's degree at Douglas College instead of at a university. By starting at Douglas, you'll save thousands of dollars in tuition fees (see p. 30 for information on fees). And, thanks to class sizes of typically 35 students, you'll get to know your classmates and will receive one-on-one support from your professors. Then, take the credits you've earned and transfer them to a university to finish your degree.

LOTS OF TRANSFER OPTIONS

Every year, nearly 1,000 Douglas international students transfer to universities across Canada, including:

- University of British Columbia
- Simon Fraser University
- University of Victoria
- University of Toronto
- University of Calgary
- University of Alberta
- McGill University

AND MANY OTHERS

DIEGO IRIAS
Associate of Arts in Economics university transfer

CHOOSING HIS OWN PATH

When Diego moved to Canada, he enrolled in the Associate of Arts in Economics at Douglas as it provided a clear pathway to university. Now a graduate of Simon Fraser University with a Bachelor of Arts, he is applying for his Permanent Residency and working as an education consultant, where he gets to help international students just like him find the right path for their education and career in Canada. "Douglas helped me adapt and get comfortable with post-secondary life," says Diego. "The transition to a big university was easy because studying at Douglas prepared me for the workload. Both institutions gave me experiences and tools that have helped me succeed in my life and career."

GISEONG RYU
English Language Learning and Acquisition - Marketing Diploma

SPEAKING OF SUCCESS

Giseong was excited to join the Marketing Diploma program at Douglas. However, she experienced a setback. “Even though I spent nine months in an ESL program before coming to Douglas, I couldn’t understand 100 percent of what my instructors said,” she recalls. “I wasn’t confident enough to join any clubs and I spent my first three semesters here struggling to make friends.” Giseong turned to an enrolment advisor who suggested she enrol in the English Language Learning and Acquisition (ELLA) program before beginning her Marketing Diploma. Thanks to the support system Giseong found, she was able to improve her writing and presentation skills so that she could get the most out of her courses. Now she’s graduated and working as a marketing manager for a global restaurant chain and succeeding in her new life in Canada.

NEELLOHIT DATTA
Post-Baccalaureate Diploma
in Finance

BUILDING A STRONG FOUNDATION

Neel came to Canada to further his education, gain work experience and eventually make Canada his home. With a degree in mathematics, economics and statistics under his belt, he decided to increase his job opportunities with a Post-Baccalaureate Diploma in Finance from Douglas. He also enlisted the help of the Career Centre. "I'd been with a temporary staffing agency, but almost all of the jobs were unrelated to my education," he says. He joined the Career Boost program, developed for post-degree program students to help them gain skills and knowledge in career development. "The program helped me reformat my resumé to highlight key areas, polish my interview skills, and taught me about networking," he says. It worked: Neel is now employed by a major bank and is working toward becoming a financial advisor and a Resident of Canada.

A GRAND SLAM FOR HER GRADES

Growing up, Jessie and her younger sister played lots of sports. By the time she was six, her passion for softball was already taking shape. Jessie chose Douglas for its renowned athletics program - including a strong women's softball team - and the chance to study Sport Science in a friendly, close-knit environment. While she had no problems bonding with her team and making new friends, Jessie needed some help when it came to the academic expectations of college. She turned to the Royals' Athletic Support Strategist who advised her to join a study group specifically for student athletes. Not only was she able to work out how to write an academic essay, but she connected with other students just like her. "As a freshman, getting myself out there and participating in the social events and academic support opportunities available at Douglas really made a difference. Now I'm more confident in my school work and I have a great group of friends that I'll know for years to come."

FINDING MYSELF IN SPAIN

By Ainsley Girvan - exchange student

I chose to go on exchange to challenge myself by living abroad. I wanted to experience everything that came with being in a different country: language, culture, food and lifestyle. And it's given me the time, space and energy to figure out who I am.

Although I'm a Criminology student, that program doesn't exist at the Universitat de Vic in Spain. I took this as an opportunity to explore a different program: Business and Communications. Every class and every day, I've been able to take something positive and apply it towards my education.

When you're in a new place, you have no choice but to branch out. I've learned that I have to put myself in uncomfortable positions to make friends or order food. Now, I can tell future employers that I studied abroad in a country where I didn't speak the language. I've developed tools for how to learn more effectively, how to better work in groups and how to communicate with non-English speakers. I highly recommend everyone do a semester abroad!

SUPPORTING HER FELLOW STUDENTS

Saya came to Douglas - and Canada - to expand her horizons and find a career in humanitarian support. While she worked on her Associate of Arts in Intercultural and International Studies at Douglas, she gained hands-on experience by getting involved on campus. Saya worked for Douglas College International and volunteered as a mentor for fellow international students. "I'm so glad I became part of that community through my work experience and was able to help develop a support network for other international students at Douglas." After completing her program, Saya transferred to the University of British Columbia to complete her Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and International Relations. Now, she's acquired her Permanent Residency and made Canada her home.
